

Hi there ! So what is your general feeling towards Republicans ?

user1

Unfortunately They are not the part of that used to be. I think theyâ€™re quite hypocritical especially recently with a right to life issues and the gun control issues.

user2

Are you feeling similar?

user2

I feel that they just go with the flow and SAY they're so moral to appeal to a wider audience.

user1

It's really just all a big GAME they play.

user1

I feel that theyâ€™re only going after 30% of the US population. They tend to yell loudly for those who still like Trump. Currently 70% of people think abortion should be kept legal as well as 70% of people believe that there should be more gun control.

user2

I do agree that itâ€™s a game unfortunately most Americans end up losing their America

user2

I feel that they are going after MUCH MORE than 30%.

user1

America is not what it was FOUNDED to be, anymore. We are far away from the original intended practices of our founding fathers.

user1

I was in New York City this past weekend and saw Strawberry Fields Where the John Lennon memorial is. He was killed in 1980 by a gun man. Here it is all these years later and this type of ours is occurring and is actually getting worse due to the types of guns being used.

user2

Oh I know it is !!

user1

I donâ€™t think our founding fathers could quite understand what life would be like now things are not as it was others years ago. Just like people who follow things biblically. Again thatâ€™s another circumstance or things have changed in the last 2000 years

user2

Perhaps our state legislators should take a much more active role.....

user1

I think Republicans go after those who are religious. They think the rights of a fetus away the rights of a woman.

user2

Well the gun control issue bothers me WAY more....

user1

How do you feel about the economy ?

user1

I honestly donâ€™t agree with state Right. We are the United States another all of our laws should be the same state to state. I think there are different issues in certain states however we are all Americans and survive by the same Ross

user2

Same rules

user2

How do you feel in regards to the way Democrats are handling the economic changes and needs across the country ?

user1

I think our economy is pretty strong. I think that businesses have more control over it then does the president. Just like when people blame the president forecast prices

user2

I honestly just wish that the Republicans would be a more modern party and look to the future than to the past

user2

Do you think our economy will completely collapse within the next 5 years ?

user1

I AGREE !!! I wish the Republicans would re-think many of their policies !

user1

No I definitely think that housing prices need to stop right just stop being raised. I feel bad for those people who are just starting off trying to purchase a new home. I think there might be recession but I donâ€™t think itâ€™ll be a total crash

user2